

How is Australia transforming the energy sector?

The Australian government, along with private investors, is committed to transforming the country's energy sector. This involves substantial funding, regulatory support, and innovative solutions to ensure that Australia meets its renewable energy targets.

What does Australia's solar agreement mean for Australia?

The agreement represents one of the most significant institutional engagements in Australia's clean energy transition to date and will accelerate the delivery of our growing pipeline of utility-scale solar, wind, and battery storage projects. Australia now has over 4.1 million rooftop solar systems in operation nationwide.

Will Australia hit 82 per cent renewables by 2030?

Clean Energy Council Chief Executive, Kane Thornton, said the strong quarterly result was in line with the pace required for Australia to hit its target of 82 per cent renewables by 2030. Clean energy already powers around half of our national energy needs.

Will Australia's solar SunShot investment help the global solar supply chain?

The government says its Solar Sunshot investment "will help Australia capture more of the global solar manufacturing supply chain through support, including production subsidies and grants".

ARENA has announced up to $151m in conditional funding for the establishment of a 500 megawatt per annum solar module manufacturing facility.

The government is aiming to change that by backing domestic innovators, workers and manufacturers to produce more of the clean energy technology needed in coming decades. Round 2 ...

Australia has unveiled a pilot to boost solar panel recycling, backed by EUR 15 million in public funding. The Government expects the volume of solar panel waste to rise sharply, increasing ...

The transition to a low-carbon economy is a critical imperative for Australia, given its significant greenhouse gas emissions profile. Investing in clean energy is essential to reduce ...

Explore Australia's renewable energy investment plans for 2024-25. Learn about key projects, government initiatives, and their benefits.

Australia invests $10M in Indonesia's HIJAU to support rooftop solar, cut emissions, and boost green energy transition.

The Australian Federal Government has announced a 25% expansion of its flagship Capacity Investment Scheme (CIS), raising the capacity underwriting target from 32GW to 40GW by ...

The politics remains shaky, but strong investment in solar, wind and energy storage in the final quarter of 2024 has put Australia back on track for renewables target.

Australia has seen its best year for large-scale renewable energy investment since 2018, finishing the year strong in 2024 with $9 billion in total capital investment committed to projects that ...

The Albanese Government will invest $1 billion in Australia's solar power manufacturing capabilities both at home and abroad, seeking to position Australia...

Web: <https://idsolar.co.za>