

While you are browsing solar power companies, one of them may offer to install a solar panel or solar roof in your home for a small cost or even for free. It's an intentionally misleading...

The Energy Department and the Solar Energy Technologies Office have warned consumers about this type of online scam involving solar panels. ...

How the scam works: People posing as solar installers or utility employees call or come to your home and offer free solar panels through made-up government programs or incentives.

Did a salesperson knock on your door and promise free rooftop solar panels at no cost to you? Or say you'll never have to pay another electricity bill because government programs, grants, or ...

Some solar energy companies offering "free" solar panels are just making exaggerated claims to advertise solar leases or power purchase agreements. These programs can get solar ...

To avoid getting scammed, you need to know what to look out for and when to walk away. Here's our guide to spotting solar panel scams and finding a great installer.

Con artists use misleading sales tactics and lies to trick homeowners out of money and personal information. If you've received an offer for "free solar panels," it could be a scam. Always...

How to avoid burning a hole in your pocketbook and protect yourself from consumer scams about free solar panels.

The Energy Department and the Solar Energy Technologies Office have warned consumers about this type of online scam involving solar panels. We rate this claim False.

The phrase "free solar panels" is often a misleading marketing tactic some solar companies use. Contrary to the promise of something for nothing, these offers usually involve a solar lease ...

As more Americans turn to solar power to energize their homes and businesses, offers for "free solar panels" are becoming increasingly common. But, how can you know if the claims are true?

Web: <https://idsolar.co.za>